

Tuesday's Transition Tips

Explore Work

The Workforce Innovation Technical Assistance Center has teamed up with George Washington University to create "Explore Work," a new online training for teens with disabilities. The course lets users delve into career planning, first work experiences, school beyond high school, workplace readiness, and self-advocacy.

"Explore Work's" modules include strength-finder activities, career scavenger hunts, independent living challenges, videos, and more. Users have the option of guided or self-guided learning. Guided instruction allows students to save and track their progress and provides certificates for each completed module.

Ready to explore? "Explore Work"

Kandace M. Evans, M. Ed, MATM
Teacher Consultant/Transition Coordinator
Washtenaw Intermediate School District