

4/2/19

Tuesday's Transition Tip

Transition Planning for Students Who Are Deaf

Who am I? What do I want? How do I get there?

Those are the three questions that form the basis for “Map It!: What Comes Next?” a free, online module designed for students who are deaf or hard of hearing. The Map It! Training modules and curriculum are funded by the Department of Education and administered by the National Association of the Deaf.

In addition to facilitator guides and print resources that you can download, Map It!: What Comes Next? Uses several videos that are signed in ASL with spoken English. The Map It! Curriculum also includes student self-assessments and guiding questions to help students identify their goals and strategies to reach them.

In today's tip we explore Map It! What Comes Next?, use this free resource when developing your student's transition IEP. Brought to you by the Department of Education and administered by the National Association of the Deaf.

Kandace M. Evans, M. Ed, MATM
Teacher Consultant/Transition Coordinator
Washtenaw Intermediate School District